

This year, two books created by CCA students will be selected for inclusion in the libraries' artists' book collection and awarded a $200 prize.

Two categories of books will be judged:

- » Handmade books in any medium or form
- » Handmade or commercially printed books where the content is the primary consideration for judging (for example: photography, graphic design, comic books or graphic novels)

The widest possible definition of book will be considered.

EXHIBITION:

Books entered into the competition will be on display in Simpson Library (SF) during the judging period, and the winning books will become part of the Libraries' artists' book collection.

ENTRY RULES:

1. You must be a current CCA student.
2. Work on the book submitted must be in conjunction with a CCA course.
3. Books will be evaluated by a panel of CCA faculty and/or library staff.
4. The winning entries become the property of the CCA Libraries.
5. CCA and the library assume no responsibility for damage or loss of work during the competition.

*Books not chosen for an award must be picked up by the end May.
